This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

"A man whose mind is enriched with the best sayings of the poets of his own country is a more independent man, walks the streets in a town, or the lanes in the country, with far more delight than he otherwise would have; and is taught by wise observers of man and nature to examine for himself."

SIR ARTHUR HELPS.

"Every good book, or piece of book, is full of admiration and awe; it may contain firm assertion, or stern satire, but it never sneers coldly, nor asserts haughtily, and it always leads you to reverence or to love something with your whole heart."

RUSKIN.

"Most books worth reading once are worth reading twice, and—what is most important of all—the masterpieces of literature are worth reading a thousand times."

JOHN MORLEY.

"I have ever gained the most profit, and the most pleasure also, from the books which have made me think the most; and, when the difficulties have been once overcome, these are the books which have struck the deepest root, not only in my memory and understanding, but likewise in my affections.

HARE.

FOREWORD

The University of Oregon has 16,000 books in its library, an annual fund of $400 from the Henry Villard gift, besides special appropriations from its general fund and it is one of the four hundred and eighty-one repositories of the government. Its library is constantly growing but it has great need of more books. It wants a library building well filled with books to enrich the learning, culture, and character of the state. More than books it wants students from all the counties who have learned to know well and thoroughly a few masterpieces of English and American literature; who have formed a habit of reading; who hunger and thirst after good books; who by dwelling with great authors and meditating upon their thoughts shall become a power in this commonwealth.

A desire to aid in bringing about all these results prompted the preparation of this pamphlet; also a desire to cooperate with the State Board of Education and County and City Superintendents in the work they have been doing for many years. It was thought that it would be of interest and value to present books for grades accompanied by the names of one or two cities where they had been tested and approved. It was also thought that the names of authors, publishers, and prices would bring before the young teachers in the school districts, the boys and girls, and the homes, another source of information about books and added encouragement to send for them for home and school libraries. It was also hoped that teachers well informed about books and publishers might often, in the crowd of work, find the information planned of immediate and practical value.

With these hopes and desires in mind, something over three years ago the Department of Rhetoric and English Literature began to correspond with State Boards of Education, Superintendents of Instruction, Principals of High Schools, teachers of English in public schools, and librarians throughout our country, and also with publishers, about lists of books that had been found by experience to be well adapted to children of different grades and about libraries for grammar grades and high schools. Generous responses came from New York to San Francisco in letters of information, lists compiled by the government, catalogues, courses of study, public school libraries, and township libraries.

It is impressive, indeed, to contemplate the vast amount of thought and care given to the selection of good books for the millions of boys and girls in our public schools, and, farther, to the study of how best to use these books so as to awaken all that makes for manhood and womanhood; for citizenship, love and righteousness. One source of the perpetuity of this nation lies in the fact that many of the comparatively few universal and immortal books are read year after year by the youth of our country, unifying its character, elevating its convictions and ideals.

All the material received has been sifted, and about three thousand books have been grouped under seventeen different lists as indexed. The lists have grown beyond all expectation in the search for books to meet varied conditions and tastes. Imagination, creative power, character, love of home, of country, nature, and the beautiful; science, industries, mechanical skill, social culture, spiritual life,—these and many other aspects have been regarded. The Reference Library for Teachers of English contains a few of the best books that may enliven the teacher's work and enrich the results for the student. Some suggestions are included under Art that may lend to the beauty and culture of schoolroom and home. A few books on general subjects are included in answer to inquiries from many interests that make for the welfare of a community.

As far as possible excellent editions at reasonable prices have been listed and no preference has been given to any publisher. It is designed to give no place to any book with poor binding or fine print that may injure the eyes.

After this work was planned and well advanced, the Board of School Text-Book Commissioners published their lists, and the legislature provided for state libraries. As a result, there is a growing interest in good reading, and the state is already much enriched in thought, and surely in power. These facts give a larger hope for usefulness to this publication. Inadvertently, some books listed by the Text-Book Commissioners have been printed in this list under other publishers and prices. A statement of such inadvertence will be sent with a copy of the pamphlet to each publisher.

I wish to express my thanks and obligations to the publishers for their many kindnesses; to School Boards, officers and teachers who have always been generous in sending information; especially to Miss Ida Bel Roe who has given devotion to the work from the beginning, and to Miss Bertha Ellsworth Slater, both of the English Department of the University.

LUELLA CLAY CARSON.

Explanations and Directions

1. The books here listed have no legal relation to the public schools and can in no way take the place of the books, publishers, and prices listed by the Text-Book Commissioners, or the State Library Board. Money appropriated by the state or any county for books must be expended under the state lists.

2. The one or two cities named below a book listed for any grade will show where that book is now in use, or has been approved in a corresponding grade or, in some cases, in a grade immediately above or below. For example, "A-Hunting of the Deer," listed in Fifth Grade above "Cleveland, New York," indicates that in each of these cities this book is read now (or has been recently read) in either Fourth, Fifth or Sixth Grade, most likely in the Fifth.

3. The symbols used in the Title Index indicate as follows: 1 to 12 inclusive, Grades; L. I, L. II, L. III, General Libraries; H. L., High School Library; T. L., Teachers' Reference Library.

4. Under the four High School grades the Entrance Requirements selected by the Committee of Ten and a few additional American works have been grouped with a desire to secure uniformity in fitting for either of the two preparatory years at the University, as well as for the freshman year. (See University catalogue 1902-1903, page 47.) The books marked S are intended for thorough study; R, for reading and composition work. In special cases equivalents will be accepted by the University.

5. As far as possible all prices have been verified by the publishers. No attempt is here made to provide for discounts. Discounts may sometimes be obtained, especially by teachers and librarians, through correspondence with the publishers.

6. The symbol † is used for each; the symbol * indicates that the price named is net, and that there will be additional cost for delivery.

7. Unless you are known to the publisher the price of books ordered should accompany the order. If the amount is small the price can be sent in postage stamps. If the amount is more than fifty cents it is better to send in a money order from the post office.

8. Form of order:
